WHO MUST REPORT INCOMES TO GOVERNMENT

Persons subject to the Federal income tax must report their income to the Government on forms, or blanks, prescribed by regulations. These forms are obtainable from any Collector of Internal Revenue, and generally from any bank. Special forms are designated for corporations, for partnerships, for trusts and fiduciaries, and for nonresident aliens. Farmers who keep no books of account on the accrual method must attach a special schedule to their return (Form 1040F). For individuals, two forms are used, depending upon the amount and source of income to be reported.

Form 1040. This form is intended for general use of individuals who are citizens of the United States, or residents in this country, whether citizens or not. It contains spaces to show the amount of income from various sources, deductions allowable exemptions and credits, and computation of tax liability. As most of the items require some explanation in order to be allowable, the form also contains appropriate schedules to show in more detail how the income or the deductions are determined.

Form 1040A. This is a simplified report, which may, at the option of the taxpayer who makes his return on the cash basis, be filed instead of form 1040 by citizens and residents whose gross income was $3,000 or less during 1942, provided all this income consists wholly of one or more of the following: salary, wages, dividends, interest, or annuities. In using this form it is necessary only to enter the amount of gross income as shown, deduct the credit allowable for dependents, and insert the appropriate amount of tax in accordance with one's personal exemption status, as shown on the table on the reverse of the form. This form has no entries for deductions allowable, since the taxes indicated in the table on the back of the form are computed after taking into account what have been considered average deductions for persons of this income class.

A taxpayer should, therefore, consider carefully which form would be appropriate for his purposes. Which ever form is employed, all the information called for in the spaces should be inserted so far as applicable to the taxpayer, in order to avoid the expense to the Government, and the possible inconvenience to the taxpayer, of subsequent check and inquiry.

With each return form is a set of accompanying instructions, and these instructions should be carefully read by the taxpayer before making his return.

Returns for the calendar year 1942 must be filed not later than March 15, 1943. They may be filed by mailing to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the appropriate district in which is located the legal residence or principal place of business of the taxpayer. If the return is filed by mailing, it should be posted in ample time to reach the Collector's office on or before March 15, 1943. Returns received later than the due date are subject to a penalty variable according to the lateness in filing.

TO OPEN DRIVE FOR COLLECTION OF FEATHERS

A drive for collection of feathers to be used in the war effort will be made by Illinois housewives, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham and Rep. Bernice T. Van der Vries, co chairman of the women's division of the Illinois State Council of Defense, announced today.

Body feathers of ducks and geese are wanted to provide down linings for aviators' suits and other cold weather garments of our armed forces. Feathers salvaged from old pillows or mattresses also are wanted but should be kept separate from new ones. These are used for army hospital pillows.

Community council chairmen are asked to seek cooperation from farmers and butchers, as well as housewives in gathering "down to help down our enemies."

The Izaak Walton League of America, Mrs. Van der Vries said, has been conducting a nationwide campaign for feathers which can be delivered to its 20 chapters in Illinois or shipment can be made direct to the Izaak Walton League, Feathers, 3227 S. Shields Ave., Chicago. Proceeds from such shipments go to the joint army and navy relief.

TINLEY NAVAL AVIATION CADETS GO INTO PREPARATORY TRAINING

Donald A. Boerner, 6647 W. 175 St. and Eugene Anderson of Tinley Park Naval Aviation Cadets, have been ordered to report for active duty at the Naval Flight Preparatory school, Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., it was announced today by the Chicago Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board.

Both cadets are graduates of Thornton high school and members of the Harvey area Navy air cadet squadron. They are among the first group to be chosen for "prep" training.

The Monmouth Naval Flight Preparatory school, one of twenty recently organized, serves as the cadet's first step in his flight training program. The schools were created to give the young men who will fly for Navy an insight into ground school subjects, mathematics, physics and Naval essentials.

On completion of flight prep school, the cadet is assigned to a War Training service school, formerly known as Civilian Pilot Training where he continues his aviation studies and receives approximately 40 hours actual flying time. From the War Training Service school he will report to a Navy pre flight training school and thence to a Naval air station where after graduation the young flier is commissioned an ensign in the Navy Air Force and is awarded the Navy wings of gold.

Jan. 7, William H. Manifold son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Manifold, 152nd and Long St., Tinley Park, Ill. was enrolled as an aviation cadet in the Army Air forces pre-flight school for Pilots at Maxwell Field, located on the outskirts of Montgomery, the capital of Alabama.

Here the new class of cadets is receiving nine weeks of intensive military, physical and academic training preparatory to beginning their actual flight instruction at one of the many primary flying schools in the Army Air Forces southeast Training center.

Cadet Manifold attended the Horace Mann and James H. Bowen schools of Chicago. He was accepted as an Aviation Cadet on October 15, 1942, at Chicago, Ill. His father is a veteran of World War 1.

TINLEY STILL HOPES FOR HARVEY BUS SERVICE

The hearing of the Tinley Park Civic club vs. South Suburban Safety Lines before the Illinois Commerce Commission last Saturday Jan. 9 concerning establishing of this service between Tinley Park and Harvey has not brought the matter to an official conclusion as yet. Rather it has taken a most unexpected turn which has injected renewed hope for eventually having bus service to and from Harvey. Although most war workers of this vicinity employed in Harvey plants are said to have been given supplemental gas rations still a number of people experience undue hardships in travelling between the two towns. Therefore, a revised plan for a direct uninterrupted service to and from Harvey is under consideration by the bus company. The ICC and ODT have always been sympathetic to the issue involved, as pointed out before, and the alternate plan now being devised might prove even better than the one originally petitioned for. Additional testimony will be necessary for the next hearing on the new route. Any one wishing to present facts pertaining to the necessity of a bus service to and from Harvey is requested to communicate such information to Mr. H. S. Bartholomew, Secretary of the Tinley Park Civic Club. The hearing, tentatively set for Jan. 28, is expected to bring clarification of the new developments.

Acute Teacher Shortage Due To War Work

Editor News-Bulletin, Mokena, Illinois.

Dear Sir:

This letter is relative to the acute shortage of teachers in the Illinois public schools. This shortage is due to the fact that many teachers have gone into war work.

To meet this emergency the Education Department of the University of Illinois has requested the Illinois Branch of the American Association of University Women to conduct a state wide registration of former teachers who would be willing to serve during the emergency. This survey includes teachers who would be willing to serve in their own community in case an emergency arose and teachers who are willing to go to another community to serve during an emergency.

The cards for this registration have been placed in the hands of the Will County Superintendent of schools and have been forwarded by him to the various superintendents in the schools of the county. Below is a copy of the statement made by the County Superintendent relative to this matter:

"At the request of the University of Illinois the Illinois Branch of the American Association of University Women are aiding in securing an authentic list of former teachers who are willing or wish to act as substitute teachers in the schools of Illinois.

The administrators are finding difficulty in keeping all schools in session because there is a shortage of teachers throughout the state. Will County is no exception to this condition. Enrollment cards are placed in the hands of superintendents in the towns and villages of Will County. Any former teacher who is willing to aid is asked to call for a registration card, fill it out and send it to the County Superintendent of Schools, Court House, Joliet, Ill.

Practically all of the vacancies are in the rural schools. Former teachers can aid in the emergency caused by the war."

Former teachers who are willing to help out in this emergency, are requested to register by Jan. 15.

The Joliet Branch of the AAUW would appreciate any publicity you would give this matter.

Ruth C. Miller, Pres. of the Joliet Branch of AAUW.

OPEN MILE OF DIMES DRIVE IN BREMEN TOWNSHIP

The annual campaign in Tinley Park and Bremen Township to raise money for the treatment of infantile paralysis will be carried on by the Tinley Park 4H boys and girls. The community will be canvassed during the last two weeks of the month and a generous response is expected.

The 4H boys voted at their regular meeting Friday night to cooperate with the Home Bureau and the 4H girls. They will solicit the business houses, clubs and other organizations and schools. This is a very worthy cause and we think everyone will be proud to participate in our Presidents favorite charity.

This decision the boys made was the highlight of the meeting and was made after Mrs. Warnes spoke about the urgent need for the money to carry on the work of National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The Friday meeting of the 4H boys was the first of the year and the topic the boys considered was the

Get Ready For Food Rationing Next Month

With the point rationing program scheduled to go into effect sometime in February, Orville Schmaedeke, chairman of the Orland Park Price and rationing board, today clarified a number of phases of the program which are of interest to the housewife. He urged her to cooperate by buying sparingly of canned and bottled processed foods and to purchase only the immediate needs of her family until the program can be placed into effect.

Illustrating the fairness of the point rationing system, Mr. Schmaedeke pointed out that the wife of a millionaire would be able to purchase no more than a wife budgeting a laborers salary.

The following questions and answers were prepared by the board chairman to clarify the highlights of the program:

Q. When will rationing begin? A. As early in February, as possible. Q. What food items are to be rationed immediately? A. All canned and packaged processed foods. Q. Why is it necessary to suspend retail selling during the week prior to the effective day of point rationing? A. This period will be used by the merchant to prepare for the start of rationing. It will give him time to replenish his stock, train his clerks, and to receive and post the official OPA list of point values. Secondly, the public must register for Book 2 and become familiar with the program.

Q. Will coffee and sugar be rationed under the point rationing program? A. No. Coffee and sugar will continue under the present program. You will retain ration book 1 to secure those two commodities in the future as in the past.

Q. Will recipients of War Book 2 declare the amount of rationed food on hand? A. Everyone applying for War Book 2 will be required to fill out and sign a "Consumer Declaration" form stating exactly the stocks of processed food on hand. Heavy federal penalties can be applied to those making false declarations.

Q. Does this Declaration mean I will have to declare the fruits and vegetables I canned at home? A. No nothing you have packed at home need be declared and no stamps will be deducted for these home supplies. Your government is asking you however, to use year home canned supplies instead of buying commercial products. Q. Will the housewife have to make an inventory of her canned goods by products? A. No she need only report the total number of cans on hand at the start of rationing. Q. Can the ration books of all members of the family be used when shopping? A. Yes, just as the coffee and sugar book is now being used.

Q. How will the consumer know when point values are changed? A. Newspapers and radio will carry the announcements, and every food store will have an OPA official poster showing current point values of each particular product. Q. Will Point values be the same in every store in the country? A. Point values will be the same in every store regardless of the price charged for the product.

The Office of Price Administration is saving the average consumer $330 a year, according to Government figures received today by Orville J. Schmaedeke, chairman of the local War Price and Rationing Board.

In explaining how this saving has been effected, Mr. Schmaedeke pointed out that everyday purchases of food and other necessary commodities would have cost the average consumer about 50 cents more a day, or roughly $180 a year, if we did not have price control today.

Coupled with this figure is the fact that Government itself has saved over 20 billions of dollars on its purchases of armaments and general military supplies. This saving in the national debt when reflected in terms of eventual individual taxes represents a saving of $150 a year for every man, woman, and child in the country.

The investment of the people of the United States in the Office of Price Administration is only about 90 cts. per person, Mr. Schmaedeke further explained. This is slight when compared to the individual's saving of $330 annually, he pointed out.

FARMERS FREE TO BUTCHER ANIMALS FOR HOME USAGE

Farmers who slaughter meat animals only for their own use face no restrictions other than they are expected to keep their meat consumption to the quotas set up by the government for all civilians, according to information secured from the OPA regional office, Chicago, by Frank Gougler, director of produce marketing for the Illinois Agricultural Association.

best methods of raising the best Victory garden. All the boys are planning to have a garden as their favorite projects this year. Billy Warnes gave a short talk on what to do about the garden during Jan. Then the boys talked about how to plant a good vegetable garden. They will continue their planning at the next meeting. Several new members were initiated into the club and all the boys are looking forward to an interesting and profitable year in their club work.

'One Can to a Customer' at This Store

Grocers can do much to prevent hoarding of canned foods between now and the time that rationing of such foods gets under way in February. Joseph Tannenbaum sets an example here by putting a limit of one can of each food to a customer at his store in New York. Most citizens put up with the restriction without complaint.

Australia—Land of Tomorrow

By William C. Courtney

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

Out there in Australia, certain novelties of aviation greatly interest Yank fighting birdmen who roost down between their wallowing flights against the no-longer-so-cocky Japs.

One of the first observations a Yank airman is likely to make at cocktail parties is that Aussie women are universally air-minded; perhaps more so than their menfolk. While at Aussie fields, probably the first unusual thing to catch his eye is the omnipresent Aussie version of WAAFs. Here they add an "a" for aviation: meaning Women's Auxiliary Australian Air force. What the famous Australian accent does to the W-triple-a-fs is beyond me to reproduce phonetically.

The WAAAFs work right up in the advanced combat zones. They've had casualties. Their commander is Wing Officer Clare Stevenson, a charming 36-year-old feminist champion. WAAAFs practically run the whole ground show—clerking, serving messes, cooking, driving cars and trucks, tailoring, folding chutes, administering, handling all telephone, cipher and radio communications, and even "manning" radio location detectors, and making engine and plane repairs. They live and mess exactly on the same basis as soldiers; are permitted but one concession to their sex—hairdressers. They wear Air Force Blue uniforms off duty; blue overalls and berets on duty.

Stork Travels by Air.

The harshness and loneliness of Australia's frontier life is emphasized to interested Yanks by a service that is unique to Australia—the renowned Australian Aerial Medical service; popularly, the Flying Doctors. They have six bases in the more than two million square miles of bush, or outback, as it's variously called. Some 250 principal homesteads have radio sets for which power is generated by a contraption like a bicycle pedal. When a doctor is needed, a messenger may ride horseback as much as 100 miles to a homestead with a radio. From here, a call is sent to the nearest Flying Doctor station, perhaps another 600 miles away.

Doc climbs into his plane with his pilot—or flies himself if the pilot isn't handy—as matter-of-factly as our country doctors used to climb into their buggies and whip up their horses. The planes are single-motor jobs, with a stretcher in the cabin. The doctor lands as close as possible to the ailing one. He is prepared to operate, deliver, or treat on the scene, if necessary; or fly the patient to civilization and a hospital. Truly, the stork travels by air in Australia. Last year, these little-sung medical heroes flew nearly 150,000 mercy miles.

Country With a Future.

For their nightly bull session at fields outside Port Darwin, Townsville, or a dozen secret rookeries outback, thoughtful young Americans find boundless subjects for discussion in the special air-transportation chances that Australia poses. The Big Dipper has seen more of mankind's purposeful comings and goings than the Southern Cross. So this island continent, sidetracked from ancient, historic trade and expansion routes of the Northern hemisphere, will loom in the postwar world as a challenge to the potentialities of air transport.

With fewer inhabitants now than the state of New York or the city of London, in an area as large as the whole United States, Australia can be drawn closely by airway netting into the international web of good neighbors. Then watch her grow! So imaginative Yank fliers say rubbing their hands, planning splendid tomorrows—and perceiving with awe for the first time the true capacity of the airplane as a gourmand of distances.

With peace, the Yank airmen see Australia only two or three days from home by plane, instead of 19, as by fastest prewar steamers. Already the route has been flown by our Generals Brett and Arnold in 30-odd hours.

Today Australia is a five-city nation.

Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide and Perth, each is in its way a nostalgic bit of England.

Behind them lies the strange, wild continent—largely unknown, untamed, unrealized, unsettled. More than half the total population is urban. Man has scarcely got beyond the beaches of Australia; registering no more impression upon it than that made upon a polo field by half a dozen colonies of ants in the grass on its border. Rail and highway travel is still very primitive; these, with her immigration laws, have held Australia back, her leaders say.

THIS is the story of an old couch that became glamorous and played a conspicuous part in a charming sunny living room. The transformation started with a heavy cotton twill fabric in a soft tan tone to match the background color of the hooked rug that you see in front of the couch. It was decided not to use any contrasting trimming but to accent the clean-cut box-like edges outlining the couch pad and cushions with a second seam on the outside.

When the smartly tailored cover was completed it was fastened firmly in place with zippers of the type that come apart at the bottom—one side being stitched to the seam allowance of the cover and the other sewn to the couch pad. Next came the stiff cushions to stand up at the back. These were made with an inside core of newspapers tightly bound together with muslin bands and then padded with cotton batting, as shown.

NOTE: Directions for making the hooked rug in this sketch may be found on page 14 of your copy of Book 5. Directions for making the spool table at the left of this sketch are also in that book. The velvet covered frames for the pictures over the couch are in Book 6, which also contains a description of the series of booklets prepared by Mrs. Spears as a service to our readers. Address:

TERESA'S BEAUTY SHOP 7.

Alaska, Dec. 14, 1942

Dear Friends:

Just a few lines to let you know your most welcome package arrived and in fine condition and wish to thank you all for everything.

ORLAND PARK

The PTA of the Doctor School, District 137 will meet Tuesday, Jan. 19th at 8 p. m., in the school on 159th street just west of Wolf Rd. This will be an open house affair with exhibits of the work done by the students of the school. Mrs. Harold Henke will be the guest speaker. A cordial invitation is extended to all folks of the community to attend.

The Legion Auxiliary met Friday evening, Jan. 8 in the home of the President, Mrs. Elsie Yunker. Mrs. Lilah Kruspe, chairman of the Service Committee gave a report on the various amounts received to help carry on this work and read several letters of appreciation from boys who had received Christmas remembrances from the Auxiliary. Mrs. Yunker reported that in the absence of Mrs. Sorley, rehabilitation chairman, she had taken the various articles of food, jellies, etc., donated by the members for the "Pantry Shelf" at Oak Forest and these were much enjoyed by the recipients. Mrs. Mollie Reish, vice-president and membership chairman announced that 32 members had been enrolled, which figure is just four short of the Unit's quota. For the balance of the winter months there will be only one meeting a month, and these will be held at the homes of the members. The next meeting will be Friday evening, Feb. 12 at the home of Mrs. Earl Reish. Dorothy Hallinan celebrated her 12th birthday Saturday with a party of 22 of her young friends at the home of Mrs. Karl Ekberg.

Roller skating is becoming a most popular diversion in Orland Park and most of the young people from the surrounding territory, as well as the older folks are taking advantage of the opportunity to enjoy this healthful sport at the skating parties which are held every Thursday from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m., in the school gym.

The annual district meeting of the W.S.C.S. will be held at Chicago Temple, Clark and Washington sts., Chicago, Wednesday, Jan. 20th. Dr. Ernest Fremont Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist church of Evanston will speak on "Christian Bases for a Just and Durable Peace." An invitation is extended to all who can make arrangements to attend.

The regular meeting of the RNA will be held Jan. 28th at 8 p. m., in the home of Mrs. Thomas Wheeler. For the balance of the winter months the meetings will be held in the homes of the members.

Miss Marie Hildeman, instructor in English, Music and Spanish at the Orland Park High School has resigned her position to enroll under the banner of Uncle Sam. She has joined the WIRES, an organization similar to the WAACS and WAVES and which handles army and navy radio and television communication. She is taking an intensive training course at the army radio school in Hotel Sherman after which she will be assigned to active duty. Though Miss Hildeman has only been with the Orland Park school since last September, she has made many friends in the community and they all join in wishing her the best of luck.

Tom Davidson who has been enjoying a leave of absence from his army duties returned to the job at Tacoma, Washington, last Friday.

The following boys in service have been transferred and can be reached at the following addresses: Corp. Arthur Kimmel, No. 36046216, 59th Eng. Co., (S.E.P.) Dear Mrs. S. S. Knox: I wish to thank you for sending me the Orland Park Herald. I think it is a great thing. It sure makes you feel like the army isn't such a bad life when you know it has such great fellowships. It would make any soldier that comes from Orland Park a very happy man. The American Legion is a very great unit, and I hope I can help them sometime and make them proud that they knew me. Sincerely Yours, Pvt. John J. Heim.

Orland Park Servicemen's News Mrs. H. Kruspe, Chr. A. L. Aux. Many thanks to the people of the community, who contribute to the Service Men's fund by way of our donation cans and thanks to the businessmen whose loyalty make our activities possible. The holiday donations have been very generous. Mr. J. Burkhardt's can with $9.61 and Barney Moore's with $13.07.

Camp Davis, N. C. Dec 1942. American Legion Auxiliary, Orland Park, Ill.

Dear Mrs. Kruspe: Sorry I didn't get around to thank you for the Christmas box and also for sending the Orland Park Herald, but we are kept very busy here at the O.A.U.S., but let me take this opportunity to thank you now. Things like that are really appreciated by men in service. I am really enjoying it here at Camp Davis even tho it has increased in size by double the amount of men when I was here before. I want to thank you all again for the Christmas box and also for the Home Town paper which I always read from cover to cover.

Wishing all of you a very happy New Year, I remain, Sincerely yours, Marvin Schmaedeke.

Jefferson Brks, Mo. Dec. 12, 1942.

Dear Mrs. Kruspe: I received the Christmas package today, and wish to thank you and the Auxiliary Unit a lot for it. From here, I may go anywhere at anytime. Pvt. Ralph W. Tilsey.

MOKENA

Mr. Henry Schiek who has been confined to his bed for some time with a mastoid is not much improved. His daughter Mrs. F. Brown stays each night with him.

Mrs. Harry Mall entertained her pinocle club in her home last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. John Mattes entertained The Larkin club in her home Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spiess entertained their Evening Pinocle club in their home last Friday evening.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schiek have been ill in their home with the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Dunn and daughter returned Saturday from Charleston, Ill., where they were called last week by the death of the former's mother.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Egger, was christened Sunday morning in St. John Evangelical church. A family dinner was served at noon in their home.

Because of the great need for surgical dressings in the army and navy the Mokena women who are helping in this work at the Red Cross work room in the Hensel building, worked all day Wednesday. More workers are needed, so if any who have not helped in this work, can find time to assist, her efforts will be greatly appreciated. The work room is open each Wednesday. Jan. 5, 1943

January 12, 1943 Mr. William Semmler, Editor News-Bulletin Mokena, Illinois

Dear Mr. Semmler: As you know, my husband is a Navy "Seabee" (construction worker) and has been working on various islands in the Southwest Pacific in fact, for the past couple months he has been on the Solomon Islands and I thought you might be interested in the following excerpts from his most recent letter. If you care to print all or part of these excerpts please feel free to do so. I quote:

"As this is Christmas Day my thoughts have been of home, and I suppose yours were out here. The holidays don't mean anything here as business goes on as usual. However, we did get together last night to sing Christmas carols, and we had church service this morning.

"Our mail is coming through pretty good now and I have received quite a few packages from home. Many thanks to everyone. There are a lot of people I should write to but we are restricted as to the amount of mail we can write each week.

"Yesterday I received the package from the Mokena Women's Service club. It was swell of them to send it. Please tell them many thanks for me. I sure do like to receive packages. Candy and cigarettes don't last long around here as we share with everyone.

"The weather here is hot and humid and it rains quite a bit. It is hard to believe it is Christmas with the temperature 125 degrees. The old sun really bears down and one has to take it easy or he might get sick. I guess by now it is quite cold back home. Boy, would I love that! These tropical isles might be interesting to see on a pleasure trip, but give me the good old U.S.A."

No doubt the Service club will be interested to know that their package reached my husband the day before Christmas.

Very truly yours, Mrs. Edwin A. Sjostedt

December 16, 1942

Dear Folks: We have arrived at our destination and are busy getting our camp fixed up. It seems like it ought to be pretty nice here, better than the last place at least. We have our tents in among the coconut trees and there is some shade. It is pretty warm and everybody perspires quite a lot. I think we ought to lose all our surplus weight before long.

I'm feeling fine but some of the fellows haven't been so lucky. There is quite a bit of sickness in this area. This is an unhealthy climate. One of my buddies went to the hospital today.

We get plenty to eat although it is not much of a variety, nearly all canned rations. One of the fellows got a letter saying they were having two meatless days a week, and he says: "Isn't that just too dam bad about them." We couldn't help but laugh, the way we're living and everything. We get all the coconuts we can eat, all we have to do is knock them down and peel the husk off. These trees extend for miles and miles.

We have worked pretty hard and if anyone thinks it isn't a job setting up a camp for this many men I wish we would get rid of about half of the equipment we cart around with us.

We went to a movie at a nearby camp last evening. The Australians have these for their troops. Seems to us like the servicemen in the States are getting everything. Only thing we have here is the Red Cross and in places like this there isn't anything at all for us. It looks like they would provide stuff for us, the guys at home can always find something to do.

We signed the payroll for Dec. today but we haven't been paid for Nov. yet. I have that bank draft and I think I'll keep it for awhile. We can't spend it here.

We bathe and wash our clothes in a little brook. It isn't so bad as you would think, in fact we laugh about it. I haven't received any mail since the 5th but I imagine I'll get some before long, at least I hope so.

I'll close hoping this finds you all in good health and in good spirits. As ever, Mike.

Emergency Rations

packed at high speed with Electric Power

Speeding miles ahead of the main unit and supply depot, aviators, paratroopers and advance mechanized units must carry emergency rations in their pockets or packs. These rations developed by the U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps contain concentrated, appetizing foods to maintain the strength, vitality and efficiency of our men.

Not only in the production of these concentrated foods, but in the packaging, too, electric power is an essential factor. As the electric conveyor moves along, each food item is added until the ration unit is completed. Then, by means of a modern electric machine, the container is dipped into molten wax to protect the freshness of the food.

Advance anti-tank units eat healthfully when they are out in the desert, miles from nowhere. The full day's ration—weighing only 2 lbs. 1 oz.—provides 3,250 calories.

(Above) With the aid of vital electric power, hundreds of thousands of emergency ration units are turned out in a single day by the efficient war workers of this plant.

Close observation of the House disclosed the fact that the desks on the Republican side of the center aisle were closer together in order to allow for more of them than in the previous session. There are 84 members on the Republican side and 69 on the Democratic. There are many new faces in the Assembly. On the Republican side there are 22 new members. In the Seventh District Frederick A. Virkus of La-Grange is the new House member taking the place of Arthur W. Sprague who is in the navy.

The realization that this would be a War Session came when the newly elected Speaker of the House, Elmer J. Schnackenberg made his speech of acceptance. Most of his talk dealt with his responsibilities and those of the other members in time of war. When he pledged "that every ruling I will make will have as its background this question 'How are we going to bring back our sons as soon as possible from a victorious conclusion of the war?'" we all knew that there was genuine sincerity in his words as he has three sons in the armed forces.

When the Governor made his appearance before the joint session of the two Houses to present his biennial message there was again emphasis on the war effort. Those of us who have worked with Governor Green in the Illinois State Council of Defense know how completely Illinois has co-operated in war activities. The highlights of the message were the Governor's recommendations for the investment of State Funds in war bonds and for the efficient reorganization of code departments particularly the Department of Finance. The recommendation proposed a new Department of Revenue.

The first bill to be introduced carried out the plan of investing the surplus of about $50,000,000 in Federal Bonds. The minority whether it be Republican or Democratic and at this time the latter always wishes to make itself heard and so an effort was made to block the progress of the Bill. After a lengthy discussion on Wednesday and again on Thursday when the House met as a committee of the whole the Bill advanced to roll call stage. It will undoubtedly be passed with a large vote and proceed on its way to the Senate for the same procedure. The question most often asked in regard to this proposal is "Why does the State not use the surplus funds to pay off its bonded indebtedness?" It so happens that the bonds which are outstanding are non-callable.

Many groups and organizations would like to spend the surplus. Already there have been proposals for increased state aid for schools, for a twenty million dollar appropriation to municipalities for defense work, increased payments for workmen's compensation, old age assistance, aid for dependent children as well as increased salaries for state employees.

This weekly news letter will attempt in future weeks to give a picture of the activities of Senator Bidwill, Mr. McGrath, Mr. Virkus and myself as they affect the district which we are elected to represent.

West Point at War

By Maj. Gen. Francis B. Wilby
(Superintendent of West Point Academy)

Being a newspaper columnist and reporter is a new experience for me. However, I feel that I can give you a Reporter's Report to the Nation from West Point, which should be of interest to every red-blooded American.

I wish that everyone could visit West Point for just one day, and see what I see. You would get an inspiration that you cannot help but feel when you see the men of the Corps and what they are doing. They are not only fitting themselves for winning this war, but also for winning the peace, and preventing, if possible, the recurrence of such another world conflagration as we are passing through today.

As you know, a cross-section of American youth is selected from all parts of the country to come to West Point. They are selected by the most democratic of methods, many of them by winning competitive examinations.

Starting with these young men, we aim to develop a rigorously trained soldier-officer, a job which is greatly facilitated by the fact that the Cadets themselves sincerely desire to make the most of the opportunity they have here. With the rapidly changing weapons and new methods developed in modern warfare, we are constantly working to keep up to date and give the latest, most accurate information and training to the Cadets.

WALTER WINCHELL is on a tour of duty outside Continental U. S. During his absence, contributors will substitute.

The Cadets learned and were doing everything a thoroughly trained enlisted man ought to be able to do, and before the Summer was over, they looked like veterans.

Summer maneuvers don't end the story of tough training at West Point. Summer maneuvers are just a phase of the year-round program which is built to train fighting leaders.

Every minute of the 16-hour day (6 a. m. to 10 p. m.) is filled by a tight schedule of instruction, study, and athletics plus tactical training in the arms and branches of the Service. The program is designed to turn out officers schooled in all types of army operation, and each Cadet is familiarized with the use of every weapon from the pistol to the airplane.

So one can see the West Pointer is TOUGH—physically and mentally. He has to be.

At the close of the Summer, the Cadets came back into the classrooms for what we call academics. During the Winter months emphasis is placed upon academic instruction while the schedule in tactical training is somewhat reduced.

A reporter probably would say that we have a highly mathematical and stiff engineering course. Perhaps that is right, but the West Point curriculum aims at teaching a man to think, to reason, and to draw sound conclusions expressed clearly and concisely. Mathematics and the sciences provide this training of the mind which we believe is so essential in order to produce the finest military leaders.

I am happy to announce that this week the West Point instruction is being given a first-hand inspection by some of the leading educators in our country. I have invited Doctor Compton, President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Doctor Hopkins, President of Dartmouth, along with the principal military experts on training in our Army today, Major General Bull of the Replacement Training Center of the Ground Forces, Brigadier Huebner of the Training Division of the Services of Supply, Brigadier General Edwards of the Training Division of the War Department General Staff, and Colonel Schlatter of the Flying Training Command of the Army Air Forces, to meet, confer and review our plans for the new 3-year course at the Military Academy. With this course we propose to produce a graduate of West Point who will have the finest education and training it is possible to afford in the time available. By constantly keeping abreast of the latest developments, we aim to do the job which America and Americans have asked us to do.

In the days of Robert E. Lee and U. S. Grant, West Point produced men to meet the challenge of that era. John J. Pershing fulfilled his task in the days of the Kaiser.

During the past Summer over 2,000 West Pointers went through the most rigorous field maneuvers that have been held in the history of the Academy. Every phase of combat training was given the Cadets. They worked, they sweated, they maneuvered over the hills and through the rivers of northwest New York State, as well as here at West Point. They had a good taste of how modern campaigns are fought.

During these maneuvers some of the toughest combat problems were carried out by the Cadets.

Income Stabilized By Crop Insurance

Greater Expenditures Involved During War

Planting war crops means added expenditures and business risks. Farmers must buy new equipment and use more fertilizers and other materials. All are scarce.

When cotton or wheat crops are insured up to 50 or 75 per cent of average yields, farmers are in a better position to plan production of all the commodities they produce. With some return on wheat or cotton crops certain, farmers can afford to make more acres available for war production.

Thus crop insurance stabilizes income, helps the grower to meet his obligations, and helps provide for financing crops essential to winning the war.

Many wheat and cotton growers planted vital war crops on part of their land for the first time last year—and did it with an assured income from their regular money crops.

Through the Federal Crop Insurance corporation, they were insured against failure of their cotton or wheat crops from such hazards as insects, drought, flood, fire, hail, plant disease, winter-kill and wind.

For the first time, the cotton crop was insured in 1942. Here, bales are stored in a field near a cotton compress company at Memphis, Tenn.

Participation in the wheat insurance program has increased each year for the past three years. In 1941, 421,133 contracts were written with wheat growers.

The cotton crop is being insured again this year. Because the nation has had cotton surpluses in the past, it is not generally recognized that crop losses cost growers an average of 460 million dollars annually. Insurance of the 1942 cotton crop on the same basis as the wheat crop will mean much to the 13 million who depend directly on cotton.

Insured growers pay premiums based on their crop loss experience. A commodity note embodied in the three-year contract guarantees the premium will be paid. Payments may be made in either cash or the commodity. If an annual installment is not paid, the equivalent may be deducted from the indemnity if there is one or from any payment due the farmer for participation in the national farm program or proceeds of any loan he obtains under loan programs administered by the secretary of agriculture.

Indemnities for crop losses are paid with a certificate of indemnity. This is convertible into cash or the actual commodity, if it is available, or used to obtain a commodity loan if loans are available.

As is the case with other phases of the farm program, the crop insurance program is administered by the state and county AAA committees. These committees write applications, adjust losses, collect premiums, measure acreages and handle establishment of yields and rates for individual farms.

1942 Milk Production

Keeping farm pastures at a high productive rate to meet the war-time demands of Uncle Sam's 26 million milk cow army requires a soil conservation program that builds up fertility and provides plant foods that will assure a good stand of legumes and grasses, an agricultural bulletin points out. In such a program, the use of fertilizer containing necessary phosphorus and potash plays an important part. "In 1942 alone," the bulletin says, "milk production totaled 123 billion pounds for our fighting forces, our allies and civilian population."

Best Milk Bucket

Where hand-milking is done, a hooded or small top milk bucket is preferred. This type of bucket will exclude about 50 per cent of the number of bacteria which usually get into the milk during the milking process. The strainer should be seamless and constructed to use standard filter discs. Milk cans and all other utensils used in handling milk should be of standard construction and free from open seams, say health authorities.

Washington, D. C.

LORD HALIFAX ENTERTAINS

Dignified Viscount Halifax, British ambassador and former foreign minister of Great Britain, was entertaining at dinner at the British embassy. The time had come for his guests to go into dinner, but they were so busily engaged in conversation that it was difficult for the ambassador to attract their attention.

"How shall we do this?" he appealed to delightful Mrs. Thurman Arnold, wife of the justice department's famous trust-buster.

"Down in Missouri where I come from," she suggested, "we sing out, 'Come and get it!'"

So his lordship sang out to his assembled guests:

"Come and get it!"

TRUMAN COMMITTEE FIGHT

A hot fight is shaping up in the senate over continuation of the Truman committee.

Friends of Jesse Jones, WPB boss Donald Nelson and others who have been criticized by the committee have quietly been lining up support in the senate to force a termination of the Truman investigation after the next session of congress convenes.

Enemies of the committee thought they won a great victory when the senate voted, two days before adjournment, to abolish all of its investigating committees on January 31, 1943.

However, far-sighted Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, chairman of the senate audit and control committee, who handled this legislation, agreed privately with Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri that his committee will get more funds.

Furthermore, one of the first things the Truman probers will examine when the next congress convenes will be the administration and necessity of nation-wide gasoline rationing.

PASS THE AMMUNITION

It hasn't been officially announced yet, but when Madame Chiang Kai-shek, "Generalissimo's mistress of China," emerges from the hospital, she plans to come to Washington and camp at the White House until she has persuaded FDR to pass the ammunition.

Madame Chiang is a very persuasive person. She combines oriental charm with a Wellesley education. Unquestionably she will become China's "ambassador-in-effect" in Washington. Already Chinese Ambassador Wei is wondering whether he or Madame Chiang really represents the Chinese government.

But while there may be some doubt on that, there is absolutely no doubt that China wants more planes and wants them quickly. This time, it is not the appeal of a desperate people, but of a people ready to take the offensive. Chinese military experts declare that they could do more damage to Japan with one plane than British and Americans could do with two in the Solomons or the East Indies.

Reason is that they can engage the enemy in great numbers, for all eastern China is occupied by Japan, whereas her forces in the Pacific are scattered from island to island. Immediate objective of the Chinese drive—if they are allowed to make it—will be Hankow.

Madame Chiang will argue that capture of Hankow would disorganize the entire transportation system by which the Japanese ship supplies overland to Indo-China and Burma.

1944 Is Too Late.

Madame Chiang also has another powerful argument up her sleeve—that 1944 will be too late. The schedule now adopted by the United Nations high command to knock off Hitler first and then turn on Hirohito in 1944, is regarded by the Chinese as a dangerous and unsound strategy.

Month by month, the Japanese are consolidating. They are bringing together the rubber, tin, and oil of the East Indies, with the iron and coal of north China, and welding an industrial system which will be able to run indefinitely. No longer will scrap iron be necessary from the outside world.

If given time, Madame Chiang will argue, the Japs will complete the gaps in the rail lines between Singapore and China, and thus have an overland transportation route, safe from submarines. Then no matter how strong the British and American navies, they will be no more able to dent Jap supply lines than the Japs can dent our communications between San Francisco and New York.

That roughly is the powerful argument Madame Chiang Kai-shek will make.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Milton Eisenhower, brother of the U. S. North African commander, is a strong possibility to become assistant to Manpower Chief Paul McNutt. Eisenhower, now chief of the War Relocation authority, was born in Abilene, Kan., eight years after his army officer brother, who was born in Denison, Texas. Another strong possibility as McNutt's assistant is John Steelman, the crack labor conciliator, who, however, cannot well be spared from his present job.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In Calcutta wealthy natives with cars invariably put their tires red because of the superstition that this will obviate motor trouble.

The rubber tapper, or seringueiro, in Brazil lives partly off the forest he ranges in search of wild rubber. A shotgun and machete are his traditional equipment.

Superstitious negroes of Georgia believe that the best cure for rheumatism is to sleep with an old tire around the waist.

When dual tires are mis-mated, the larger tire carries most of the load, wears off its tread abnormally and fails early due to the generation of excess heat in its cord carcass.

It is estimated that the average tire loses 12 per cent of its weight in use and yields about ½ of its original weight in reclaimed rubber.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living--life itself--is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes--feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbances. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

Where Credit Is Due

"America is outproducing Europe's slaves because free men are doing the job," says the Murphysboro, Ill., Independent. "Let government place the orders under proper supervision—American industry will do the rest. Our armament and plane makers, our utilities, our railroads have proved they can accomplish miracles. Our metal and timber resources are being utilized to the fullest by the ingenuity of private management, and the coal industry has provided the nation with the biggest stock pile of fuel in history. All these things have been and are being done by private citizens. They, and not the bureaucrats, should get the credit."

The All-Essential Food Supply Line

At a recent meeting of the Transportation association in Chicago, C. J. Abbott, who operates a ranch near Alliance, Neb., gave examples of the trouble that is being caused in country districts by the injection of artificially high pay rates for industrial labor.

Mr. Abbott said that it is almost necessary to have one cow man for 500 cattle, but on most of the ranches in his neighborhood there is but one hand for 2,000 cattle. Practically only the foremen are left, and these are the older men.

Farm hands are talking about demanding $200 a month, besides board and room. This is causing ranchers to think about selling out. The trouble-maker, according to Mr. Abbott, is the high wage and overtime paid for ordinary work in industry. He tells of a man engaged in mixing loose cement on a government construction job, cashing a check for $157.50 for one week's work.

The ranch owners and farmers of this country are raising the grains and meat that feed our own armed forces, our own civilian population, and the people of many other lands. It seems only reasonable to expect that means must be found to keep this supply line open on the farms of America by keeping on the farms the men who are so badly needed for the job.

A CALL TO ALL AMERICANS

Several months ago Albert W. Hawkes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, delivered a notable address on the subject, "Moratorium in Industrial Strife." Today, Mr. Hawkes is a Senator of the United States, having been chosen at the recent election by the people of New Jersey. Extracts from his address of months ago are therefore even more timely than they were when delivered:

"What we need is an awakening to a recognition that this is a reality on the stage of life—not a fiction or drama on the amusement stage or screen. When both capital and labor discover that this is a real tragedy in the life of the human family and that each and every one of us must act his own part . . . I am convinced they will satisfactorily answer the emergency call of our people."

"This national defense is imperative . . . Some say a few strikes or lockouts are to be expected in a democracy. I say—and I believe that 90 per cent of the American people will agree with me—that one strike or lockout, or the loss of one hour, from here on to final preparation—is one hour too much of interruption."

"I appeal to every man and woman in the ranks of labor, management and capital, to prove now that free men, without being compelled by law, can do the right thing in this great emergency. We are all still free to do the right and necessary thing. Let us do it, and thus preserve our individual freedoms."

BELT-TIGHTENING

According to the latest estimate, there are now 10 men and women working in factories and on farms for each American in uniform. When the present armed forces of five million men are increased to nearly 10 million, as they may be in 1944, there will be only five workers behind each American fighter.

Today the nation's working force is estimated at 52,400,000 men and women. Manpower officials can do little more than replace men called into the service with an equal number of new workers, hence the labor force will remain about as it is.

This expansion of the armed forces can mean only greater sacrifices by civilians. As the working force cannot expand in proportion to the military, workers will have to produce more for the army, navy and marines, and less for themselves.

Such belt-tightening will not cause patriotic Americans to grumble, because they face a duty which is plain and fully realized. But it does emphasize the need for the greatest possible economy and the wisest possible management in all civic expenditures outside of those things which must be done to win the war.

RUBBER FROM DANDELIONS

At a meeting of the National Farm Chemurgic Council, Dr. Paul Kolachov, Russian-born American chemist, explained how the United States could relieve the rubber shortage and bring a new and profitable crop to American farmers at the same time.

This expert finds a possible solution to the rubber problem in the Russian breed of our humble dandelion, which answers to the name of kok-saghyss. A small experimental shipment of seed has been sent over from Russia, and it is hoped that a larger shipment may be brought so that satisfactory tests may be made.

Dr. Kolachov claims that with an experimental shipment of 10 tons of dandelion seeds, 8,000 acres of the rubber-bearing plant could be cultivated. Since each acre can give 150 pounds of rubber this means 1,200,000 pounds of rubber in a year's time.

Also this same 8,000 acres would produce 800,000 pounds of seed. Planting these seeds in the Spring, over 320,000 acres, would see, by Fall, the production of 48,000,000 pounds of rubber.

With 7,000,000 acres in cultivation, the United States could obtain about 600,000 tons of rubber a year to supplement its synthetic rubber production.

Price Is Favorable.

The price? Dr. Kolachov has gone into cost estimates and he figures that, in America, the rubber would be obtained for about 32 cents a pound. This compares favorably with the 30 cents a pound for synthetic rubber, from petroleum, which has been forecast when production gets rolling.

And the price compares favorably, too, with the 35 cents a pound for rubber from Malaya before Pearl Harbor.

What Kok-Saghyss Is Like.

In outward appearance this Russian dandelion is very similar to the dandelion that grows wild in the fields and vacant lots of America. It has the same yellow flowers, the same fluffy seed clusters, and a leaf which is largely similar.

Rubber is found in the skin and pulp of the root. One very great advantage of kok-saghyss is that it is extremely hardy and can be grown in almost any latitude, provided there is sufficient moisture and the right quality of black soil.

Whether or not kok-saghyss will be cultivated extensively will depend upon our progress in manufacturing synthetic rubber and the success of the experiment with guayule. The cultivation of guayule must be confined to sub-tropical conditions.

Through our National Farm Chemurgic Council, chemistry, in examining new plants, is finding many uses for present crops and many new plants which can be cultivated to advantage in America.

THE FARMER'S WAR PROBLEM

Referring to the concern expressed for the union worker who has to put in long hours, an Illinois farm wife, whose letter appeared in a recent issue of a metropolitan daily, made these observations:

"Has anyone ever worried over the hours a farmer works? . . . Never in my whole life have I known a farmer who worked less than 12 hours a day, at least six days a week, with at least five hours of chores and odd jobs on Sunday. And now, due to labor shortages, it is a poor man indeed who doesn't work 14 to 16 hours."

"No one mentions the farmer handling the most dangerous machinery in the world. They are urged to use lights and work longer hours, when everyone must know the lights attached to a tractor are only the smallest dot in the darkness and a kerosene lantern (for which we can't get kerosene) is little better than a candle. What union man works under such conditions?"

"In our county a child drowned in the stock watering tank while the mother was helping with chores. In our state several children burned while the mother helped the father with morning milking . . . Who ever heard of a union man taking his wife to work to help on his machine? If she works, it's for a good wage."

"Rationing is also penalizing the farmer. As an example, we will get two pounds of coffee in our household to last five weeks . . . Probably in the 35 days I will get at least 25 meals for extra men, neighbors, and men hired by the day to help in combining and corn picking. Where will I get the coffee for them?"

"Our car will get an 'A' card and no one is kicking, for we can cut our pleasure driving just as anyone else, but our truck is another thing. Our nearest town where any major replacement parts for our machinery must be bought is 20 miles away . . . Our truck carries the gas, oil and water to the machines in the field. Can we get gas for this? . . . Use horses for the road work? Horses must be shod . . . Most towns have no blacksmith nowadays and even if they have one he cannot get the shoes . . . What is the answer to all this? Could it have been planned that way?"

Production

In the free play of economic forces, the most efficient producer always profits most.

Children of Our Community

After a few weeks vacation due to Santa Claus, we are again this week returning to Our Community Children.

The good natured youngster to the left is Thomas, 3½ months old, and his handsome brother to the right is 1½ years old. Both have brown hair, even tho Thomas yet can't come up to his brother's crown, he isn't worrying about it. Both have blue eyes and are all taken up with the antics of the cameraman. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Miller of Parker Road, Mokena.
